Excessive Penalties

A player who receives ten (10) minutes in accumulated penalty time, overtime included, shall be ejected from the remainder of the game. Should the ejection occur within the second half of play or overtime in a game the player shall be suspended from the next regularly scheduled game.

This decision has been made to, hopefully, deter players from taking too many penalties. Scorekeepers have a responsibility to make officials aware of players or teams that are approaching the 10 minute limit. Bench staff should be aware of the penalty status of their players.
